Before your departure for Honolulu desire to express my great appreciation of your interpretations of "Othello" and "The Winter's Tale." Your recitals not only instructed your hearers upon the origin and history of the plays but interpreted with real artistic front from Battery I of the Sixth Arskill and insight the mind of Shakespeare, giving a powerful expression of the peculiar passion which plainly dominates these masterpieces. I need not add that the people of San Fran-cisco were delighted with you and your efforts. I hope all the people in Honolulu may hear you, not once or twice, but many times. Not since I have seen Booth have I enjoyed two such Shakespearian representations. Mr. and Mrs. Williams will arrive by the Australia next Wednesday. While here they will give a series of Shakespearean recitals at the Y. M. C. A. Vearly 150 season tickets have already been sold. One of the pleasing features of the entertainments will be the music. Mendelssohn's score for Midsummer Night's Dream and Sullivan's for The Winter's Tale will be given by a good orchestra. The recitals give promise of being the literary and society event of the season.

PROCESSION TO THE CEMETERY

Formation of the Column - Graves Covered With Flowers - Ritual Read-Oration of the Day.

(From Wednesday's Daily.)

With appropriate exercises Memorial Day was observed in Honolulu. The old veterans joined hands with the young soldiers of the Republic in paying fond tribute to the dead. With beautiful blossoms they decked the graves of the heroes of the great struggle. Nowhere throughout the United States was more fitting tribute bestowed than in Honolulu The processions may have been larger, and where was there a deeper feeling of reverence and love and a better understanding of the true meaning of Decoration Day.

The celebration was held under the auspices of George W. de Long Post, G. A. R. The program was brief, but every number was well delivered. The procession was not so large as has marked the day in previous years. It was well conducted, and the day was not marred by a single untoward incident.

Promptly at 2 o'clock the different bodies who were to take part in the procession began to arrive at the starting point, Alakea and King streets. They were assigned positions by Dr.

N. B. Emerson, the grand marsha; The fluttering flags and the music of the bands gave spirit to the occasion. At 2:30 o'clock the column began to move up Alakea street to Emma, to Vineyard to Fort to Thool, to Nunanu, to the cemetery.

Two of the mounted police rode shead and cleared the way. Immediately behind them was the Kamehameha band, the members looking nest and natty in their uniforms of gray. After them came the sixteen-file tillery. The men were commanded by Sergt. Shell, and marched with the Great Demonstration on Departure of the Olympia - Band Playing-Cheers-H. B. M. S. Powerful.

MANILA, May 20 -The cruise Olympia, with Admiral Dewey on board, left here on her homeward journey to the United States at 4 o'clock this afternoon. As she steamed away the Oregon, Baltimore and Concoru fired an admiral's salute. At the first shot the band on the flagship played a lively air, and the crew crowded the decks and gave thunderous cheers. As the Olympia passed the Oregon the crew of that battle ship gave nine cheers for the Olympians, who responded by throwing their caps so high that dozens of them were left bobbing in the wake of the cruiser, Then followed the noisest half hour known in this harbor since the battle which linked its name with that of Dewey.

The din of guns and brass bands echoed through the smoke, a fleet of steam launches shricked their whis-Les, the musicians of the Baltimore played "Home, Sweet Home," her flags FAVORITE TEAM IS DEFEATED signaled "Good-by," and those of the Oregon said "Pleasant voyage." The merchant vessels in these waters dipped their flags, the ladies on the decks of the vessels of the fleet waved handkerchiefs, and the great black British cruiser Powerful, which lay the farthest out, saluted the Olympia. The latter's band played "God Save the Queen," and to this the crew of the Powerful responded with hearty cheers for the Olympia.

The last music heard from Dewey's ship was "Au.1 Lang Syne," while the guns from the forts at Cavite and from the Monterey, on guard on Paranaque, too far to be audible, puffed white clouds of smoke. The Olympia was disappearing past Corregidor island when a battery before the wailed city spoke Manila's last word of Brock and Adams Take the Men Doubles-A Surprise - Some Brilliant Playing.

The tennis tournament is ended. The last match of the gentlemen's doubles Adams were the victors. The defeated team was Elston and Ross. The result was a surprise to a great many, as the latter players had been picked to win. The consistent team work of Adams and Brock, aided by the loose play of ican protectorate which they talked of their opponents, won the match. The contest was, with one or two exceptions, singularly lacking in brilliant work. It had been confidently expected that some magnificent tennis would be seen, but the result was otherwise. NEW YORK, Lay 22.-A Sun cable from Manila says: Judge Advocate Alberto Baretto, one of the Filipino Commissioners, had an interview today with the American Philippine Commission. The meeting was approved of by General Luna, one of the rebel commanders, who is thoroughly in accord with Aguinaldo in his efforts to obtain peace.

The primary object of the interview was to ascertain the kind of government that the United States proposes to establish here. The Filipino commissioners have no power to effect a settlement, but must refer all matters to Aguinaldo.

SHORE THIS STRUCK

Stranded Near a Wreck-No Loss of Life - Passengers Taken Cff-. Hope of Saving the Ship.

FALMOUTH, May 21 .-- The American line steamer Paris, Captain Watkins, from Southampton and Cherbourg for New York, struck on an outlying ridge of the manacles early this morning at a point half a mile from where the wrecked Atlantic transport Mohegan lies, and five miles from Falmouth. The Paris, which sailed from Southampton yesterday, called at Cherbourg and picked up fifty passengers. She left Cherbourg at 6 o'clock last evening. Soon after 1 o'clock this morning, at high tide and in a dense tog she ran ashore. From the first there was no danger. Lifeboats and tugs were soon literally swarming around the vessel rendering assistance. A majority of the passengers, who numbered 380, were brought to Falmouth, where the obtained lodgings for the night.

Captain Watkins reported that his ship was lying comfortably in smooth water, and there was no occasion for any alarming reports. He reported the passengers and crew all well.

The first indication of the vessel's striking the rocks was a slight grating sound, which was followed by a second and more pronounced shock. The lookout shouted that there was something looming ahead, but before there was time to reverse the engines the ship had gone on the rocks, 200 yards from the shore. Assistance was summoned by means of rockets, and the coast guards promptly telephoned to the lifesaving station for boats.

A majority of the passengers were not aware that an accident had happened until they were called up by the stewards. On reaching the deck they found the ship's boats in perfect readiness for their reception. The sea was perfectly caim, and the only discomfort that the passengers experienced was caused by the slight rain that was falling at the time. Owing to the calmness of the sea, the boats could be managed with entire safety.

Perfect order prevailed aboard the vessel. Captain Watkins stood on the bridge giving orders and his perfect self-possession and calmness of demeanor had a reassuring effect upon the passengers. In accordance with instruction of the captain, the women and children were the first to be taken off the ship. Such perfect order was maintained that a passenger described the scene as simply a slow procession of women and children walking in single file to the boats.

It is suggested that as this is only their second trip from Cherbourg, the officers of the Paris were not familiar with the course. The crew of the Paris are still aboard the vessel.

· It is believed that the steamer has a targe rent in her bottom in the forward part of the ship. Tugs are standing by her and will assist in an effort to get her off the rocks. Further details of the disaster show that when the vessel struck the crew were summoned on deck. The passengers appearing were met in the companion way with comforting words and assurances of their safety. Exceptional coolness was shown on all sides, the stewards distributing coffee and stimulants to all who desired them.

Captain Watkins had his gig lowered and rowed ashore in order to ascertain his whereabouts and to telegraph to Falmouth for tugs to assist his ship. In the meantime rockets were sent up and signal guns were fired.

When dawn broke every one on board was relieved to find the shore on one side and lifeboats lying near by on the other. The vessel lay with her head to the southwest, the reversing of her engines having put her broadside on to the rocks. Happily the sea was smooth and there was no wind. Otherwise there would probably have been the collier Miame, a vessel of 2292 a different tale to tell.

The dangers of the vicinity were strikingly brought home to the passengers and crew by the maste of the wrecked steamer Mohegan, which are sticking out of the water, and by a miserable bell buoy, which tolls almost constantly, as though sounding a death knell.

from his trip ashore les erenhehmmm edy that gave him any relief." Many from his trip ashore he learned that others have testified to the prompt rethere was already considerable water lief from pain which this liniment afin the hold, and the tugs which had fords. For sale by arrived stood by in readiness for any emergency. All the passengers were transferred to the tug Dragon, but beyoud the clothes they wore they took nothing with them. They were land- in a fortnight.

sd at Falmouth shortly after 7 o'clock, the local agents of the American line meeting them and providing them with every care and quartering them at the various hotels and the Sailors' Home.

When the Paris struck the tide was within an hour of the flood, and this proved insufficient to raise her off the rocks. Hundreds of people visited the scene during the day.

It is stated that those in charge of the Paris were so perfectly confident that they were pursuing the proper course that the vessel was steaming eighteen or nineteen knots an hour when they struck.

In connection with the accident to the Paris it will be of interest to mariners and travelers to hear that Boyen, Lt E H persistent agitation since the wreck of Bolster, A the Mohegan has at last induced the Trinity brethren to act, and last week they promised to erect a gas-lighted, automatic sound-producing buoy on the manacles in place of the useless bell buoy now there. Ganga of men on lighters have gone to the stranded steamer to take off the belongings of the passengers.

Use of Wake Island is Now Forced-The Honolulu Line-Survey Ship Route.

NEW YORK, May 23 .-- The Washington correspondent of the Herald telegraphs: I learned today that the attention of the State Department has been called to the recent occupation by Japan of Marcus Island, in the Pacific. The acquisition of this island by Japan has had the effect of causa change in the instructions given to the collier Nero, which is surveying the cable route proposed by Rear Admiral Bradford.

CABLE ISLAND

Important Landing Point Seized

by Japan.

STATES HEADED OFF

This route avoids Wake island, which was taken possession of by the gunboat Bennington in the name of the United States, and contemplated the laying of a cable between Honolulu and Midway Island, acknowledged to be American, which possesses a harbor capable, with slight improvements, of accommodating vessels of light draught. The distance between Honolulu and Midway is 1160 miles. The proposition & HOLIDAY was then to connect Midway and Marcus Island, 1500 miles apart, with Guam, the next cable station being only 840 miles distant from Marcus Island.

Marcus Island is 1000 miles from Yokohama, and was placed by the United States man-of-war Tuscarora in 1874, in latitude 23 degrees 10 minutes north, longitude 154 degrees east.

Reports received at the Navy Department regarding Wake Island show that it is of little value as a cable station, being but a few feet above the sea; and frequently submerged.

ITS INDISPUTABLE.

Because Its in Honolulu and Can Be Investigated. Like all statements which have preceded this and like all which will follow, the party interested is a citizen. In a city of about 25,000 people it is hard to hide the doings of your neighbors. It is an easy matter to find the residence of Mr. Metcalf. The reader has not to sit down after he peruses his statement, which follows, and wonder-as he would wonder were his case Schweitzer, Miss C Sturge, Miss L (12) in San Francisco-if the facts can be Sherman, Mrs H C | credited. EXECUTIVE RESPONSIBILITY.

Spain, in his valuable treatise on "The the Italians or the Portuguese do they Origin and Growth of the English Constitution," traces step by step the gradual shifting of power from the Sovereign to the Parliament, and the for hire. eponsibility of Ministers to the House laborers who will civilize slowly. The be treated to "Dewey" sausages, and which compels him to labor and the of Commons instead of the Throne.

This phase of English political history is especially interesting to those, in these Islands, who once undertook to make the Kings of Hawali responsible to the Legislature and the people. This could not be accomplished by changing the written law, because the mess of the people were indifferent to the source of responsibility.

Hawaiian King responsible to the peonecessity. The provision in the Hawallan Constitution of '87 was based lar foundation that demanded it.

English head was thinking over this editor has. absolutism and suspected it. Finally, in his troubles, the King went to Pitt final domination of the English lanfor aid, and made him First Minister, guage, in commerce at least, and they and in the course of time Pitt took urge that steps be taken to make the from the King the responsibility of educated Japanese masters of it. That governing, and responsibility to Par, they have already succeeded in publiament was established.

This admirable account of the growth of Parliamentary power is especially interesting, because it shows Japanese editors are quite superior to how impracticable the attempts were the average American editor in the to establish parliamentary government correct use of the English language is here, twelve years ago. Whoever shall most creditable to the Japanese eduwrite the history of our little mon- cation. archy will, if he studies the growth of this popular government in England, be able to explain its failure in Hawaii.

To the American student this history of Parliamentary government is especially attractive, because it shows that the Revolutionary War was not due to any hatred by the British of tne American colonies, or any desire arbitrary power of the King, which, at that time, could not be controlled by Parliament. It has been the practice for over a hundred years for American teachers and historians to put the blame of carrying on the Revolutionary War upon the British nation, and three generations have lived and died in America, in ignorance of the truth. It is now left to American historians, educated to better research, and with impartial judgments, to show the American people that they have been misled, and have filled the national reservoirs of feeling with a causeless bitterness and hatred.

One of the most interesting statements made by Mr. Taylor is that the makers of our own great Constitution, framing it at the time when the King and not the Ministers ruled in England, gave the President large powers. and made the Cabinet merely his servanta. It was not until after the Constitution had been adopted that the principle of Parliamentary government was established in England, and the King was made only the nominal head of the government. Had this principle been established before the adoption of the Constitution, it is probable that our present system of Executive responsibility would have followed the English precedent, and the President would not have had the veto power. and the Cabinet would have been at the disposition of Congress.

The President of the United States-Attorney-General Henry E. Cooper. To round out the sentiment the speaker said he would like to add to it "The friend of Hawaii." The Attorney-General spoke for the first time in public of his visit to President McKinley at Canton soon after the determination of the campaign of 1896. Mr. Cooper spoke earnestly of the impression that he then received of the greatness of the man whose fame as a statesman and executive has since become world wide. The name of Williem McKinley should always be held in highest esteem, in these Islands escially, for sitting President of the United States he had taken a deep personal interest in the welfare of the Minister Mott-Smith referred very modestly to his own occupancy of a place in the official family of Mr. Dole, and spoke glowingly of the record that had been made by the chief executive and his advisers during many trying periods leading up to a culmination of the chief desire behind the greatest political movement or development of the country. The youngest member of the Cabinet concluded by remarking that "down town" people often thought or seemed to think that all questions presented to the Government could be decided or handled on the instant. His idea was that some of the critics would occasionally find themselves puzzled with the multiplicity of puzzles and the diverse interests and issues involved. Attorney Smith, at this time and in a brief speech made later in the evening, was at his best. He was eloquent in acknowledging the services of the physicians in general to the community, their ready response time upon time to the call of duty, their arduous and disinterested toil, and their intelligent efforts for the improvement of sanitary conditions Mr Smith was deeply moved by recalling incidents of his life here, and at times spoke with genuine feeling. replete with beautiful word-pictures. It was as follows:

This gathering is one of the greatest revelations to me, to think that nearly 3000 miles from the shores of the United States the people gather to honor the dead of that-or, I should say, this—nation, is one of the surest evidences of the stability of the Western Republic. What a thrill of patriotic pride surges through one's veins when we see these graves remembered. Of all the days that are or have been set apart by the different nations as holidays, none deserve more than this one to be supported by all. The observance of the day ought not to be lim-ued to the New World, but to all corners of the earth. A friend of mine remarked the other day "that it was a holy and a wholesome thing to honor the dead." To my mind there is no action that shows a more refined and cultivated nature than one that tends to show that we still remember the dead. Any people that can and will find time to close the office and shop to do honor to the fallen soldier-yes, and the living-will be thrice blessed. Not to the dead alone, but to those few that are left to us, we owe a debt of gratitude. We have here the representative of a union of survivors of that terrible struggle. No grander organization can exist. The object of their existence being to perpetuate the memories of the comrades who have answered the last roll call, they are nobly succeeding in their most laudable object.

No honor in life, nor reverence in death, is too great for the men that left their homes nearly forty years ago to take up arms in a great armed struggle to preserve inviolate that flag that is today the pride and protection of all lovers of liberty.

One year ago today I passed through one of the smaller national cemeteries of the United States. Here lie buried 10,000 dead whose names were unknown.

What a prolific cause of regret and remorse when we think that 10,000 homes waited and wondered at the delay in the home coming of a father, brother, or perhaps a lover, and who now lies in an unknown grave. Did you ever think what it is to go down to posterity without a name? Nothing to distinguish one, save a number.

I can imagine no more apt simile than to liken our national life to some great upward incline flecked with the golden light of heaven, shaded here and there by clouds of war, these same dark spots serving but to enhance the beauty of the balance of our pathway. Come with me if you will and let us walk up this grade. Scarcely have we started when, rising below us, is a flagstaff, upon which floats the stars at half mast. Here it is that patriots of the new power to be, placed their lives upon the altar of their country. Lexington, the gateway of Western liberty! And upon it is builded a mighty monument, whose foundation is the blood of the first pioneers of liberty and freedom, and whose top is covered with immortality. As we continue our journey upward and onward let us observe that there has risen Phoenix-like, a great new world power. Still passing on and we reach a cemetery where lie those of the Mexican war. And in fancy I can see the veterans of that struggle looking with dimmed eyes upon this old cemetery. It is but a short distance until a grand, nay infinite, yet withal an inspiring picture is presented to our gaze. Reaching out to where the sky touches the earth, is a perfect sea of marble slabs! Again, our fancy leads us backward, until we see a vast army gathered, going out to battle. How strong they look, how invincible they are, backed up by the right, with God's support. For four long, bloody years we can follow them through campaign after campaign, braving battle and disease that the Union might survive. Then came peace, blessed peace. And then, as time goes on, we see this fighting army becoming citizens and banding together to keep alive the comradeship of the tented field. It is a solemn thought that year by year this band of honor becomes smaller and smaller. I can see in fancy how they are standing today all over the United States. by the side of some comrade's grave. telling how he that lies below was their best friend. And in passing onward through this almost boundless array we reach those whose names are unknown on earth. Dying among strangers unknown, unloved, may

They can look down on us this day each year and see that this day still is kept. They made it possible for a judge to be just. They struck the scales from the eyes of the world and the shackles from the wrists favor and our nation should bestow every reward in its power. They are growing fewer every year, and that fact alone makes it all the more incumbent upon us to cherish them in their declining years. May this day return many times to the gray-haired men who today have assembled, and when they, too, shall have passed, answered the last retreat roll call, and when the Great Reveille shall sound may the mantle of charity be thrown over all, and may they one and all be placed on the right hand of Him who judges all mankind. They kept our country on the map and our flag in the heavens. Cheers for the living, tears for the dead.

After the roll call of the dead, Battery I fired three volleys, "America" was sung and taps sounded. The crowd then moved through the cemetery, stopping here and there to deck the grave of some loved one.

The celebration was interesting and appropriate. The day was observed generally throughout the city. Flags were hung at half mast from all the staffs, and the business houses and Government offices were closed.

A BIT OF THE TRUTH.

The most pertinent and startling question ever asked is this: "What is truth?"

A Roman Governor propounded it once, under circumstances which greatly worried and perplexed his official mind. And he was not the first man or the last—not by myriads. So far as I know there has been no satisfactory answer. Some people (radicals and come-outers of various sorts) fancy that in this, the tail end of a rather braggart and conceited century, they have flushed a fair-sized covey of have flushed a fair-sized covey of truths by firing speculative shotguns into every wayside bush and bog.

picked the bones of the cave-dwellers, and the same sparrows that sold two for a farthing in the time of Pilate. There were plenty of fools of old, and there are plenty now. The ancient doctors, indeed, prescribed, some horrible stuffs as medicine:—they used electuaries of vipers' flesh and recommended pomegranate seeds for toothache because those seeds resemble human teeth. Very shallow and silly, to be sure, this sounds to us. But if you wanted to find things that came very near matching them in modern practice, I could show you where to look. Some of the greatest truths in medicine," said a learned Scotch doctor, came by the humblest means; not by synthesis or venesection, but by the observations of peasants and the experiments of motherly women."

A SUPREME COURT . DECISION

Opinion on Important Cases - Edwards, et al-Hawsiian Customs Laws bill in Force.

(From Thursday's Daily.)

The most important rulings of the Supreme Court since the handing down of the decisions in the Chinese immigration cases, were made of record yesterday. The opinions will strike the laymen as confirmations of the Newlands resolution, proclaimed here August 12 last. It is held by the highest tribunal of this country that the laws of Hawaii pertaining to customs revenues and jury trials obtain and hold and continue in force, even if in conflict with the constitution of the United States, until there is further legislation for Hawaii by the Congress at Washington. Cases involved in the decisions presented or uttered yesterday include those with large sums of money at stake and with the liberty of men in question. For reader, no. They have put up crows and sparrows, the same crows that picked the bones of the cave-dwellers possible one or more of these cases will be certified to the Supreme Court of the United States or to authorities at Washington. While these rulings have been expected for some time, they came yesterday rather as a surprise, for the attorneys of petitioners had commenced to believe that perhaps a considerable time yet would elapse before the Supreme Court was ready. Strong fights have been made by counsel in: each instance. In the revenue case it was strongly urged that the issue was beyond, that question at bar, in that the decision might be taken to be the utterance of the Court on whether or not this country should, in future legislation at Washington be deemed a part of the United States or a denendency.

The Supreme Court has handed down a unanimous decision in the case of the Hawaiian Star Newspaper As. sociation vs. H. B. Saylor, in which the former verdict is upheld. The from indigestion and weakness. I point of particular interest brought

The verdict must stand. The case of Edwards referred to in the above decision was an appeal for a rehearing on the ground that only nine jurymen assented in the verdict of guilty, it being contended that this was against the constitution of the United States. In the opinion handed down stating that the verdict must stand the following points of law were brought out:

"During the present transition period felons may be prosecuted without the intervention of a grand jury, and convicted by nine out of twelve petit jurors as permitted by the Hawalian statutes, notwithstanding the fifth and sixth amendments to the constitution of the United States and the clause in

At the Pacific Mail wharf is the leviathan United States army transport Sherman, which arrived from San Francisco yesterday morning at 7 o'clock, with nearly 2000 souls on board, bound for Manila.

The Sherman is the finest troop ship in the world. She was formerly the Mobile, of the Atlantic Line plying between New York and London. She was fitted up for a troop ship at Cramps yards, and took troops for the Philippines from New York by way of the Suez Canal. She is 445 feet long, 49 feet beam, 34 feet depth of hold, 5780 tons gross register; she has four bollers, capable of producing steam equal to 3600 horse power; her engines are triple expansion; she has twin screws and her propellers are 21 feet pitch. She carries a crew of 175

First Officer C. F. Roberts, who has been on the Sherman all the way 'round the world, is very popular aboard the ship. The Sherman arrived in Manila from New York March 22nd, and Officer Roberts, as soon as he could get ashore, trudged out to the front where Gen. Otis' line of battle was getting ready before Malabon to engage Aguinaido's forces. Behind trenches on Sunday, March 26th, stockaded with uprights of loopholed corrugated iron were the Filipinos, awaiting the Second Oregon Infantry who, spoiling tagtics, rushed pell mell forward yelling as only the "web-toot" can yell. Dropping their guns the Filipinos fled and the Oregons chased them up and beyond Malabon, leaving behind another regiment, which was too close in on the enemy's flank. Where was Officer Roberts all this time? He was among the boys, yelling with the rest of them, having grabbed up a stray Mauser from one of the dead rebels. He can tell of many heroic deeds on that deadly field and how splendid a sight it was to see Uncle Sam's boys put the foe to flight. The Sherman will take the Oregon

Return to Port of the U.S. Cruiser Philadelphia.

Bi Hanolulu Navat Row Once More Is From Samoa-To Be Here -Ten Daye.

From away off in the sunlit southem horizon, in the small hours of yesterday morning came the white cruiser Philadelphia, which has been absent from these waters some two months in Samoa, having sailed hence on February 21st, and arrived in Apia March Co.

At 8 o'clock she steamed into the channel and dropped her anchor in her old barth in naval row, saiuted by the Russian frigate Razboynik with thirteen guns in honor of Admiral Kautz. This was returned by the Philadelphia's guns and the hoisting of the Grar's flag at the masthead.

The Philadelphia sailed from Apia on her return May 21st and has had a feld & Co. pleasant trip all the way up. Although having a foul bottom the time was about ten and a half days. The Philadelphia will remain in Honolulu ten days, and then sail for San Francisco, where she will be put in the dry dock and after a thorough cleaning will sail on a cruise up the northwest coast.

There are but few changes among the Philadelphia's officers, except those occasioned by the sad loss of Lieut Lansdale and Ensign Monaghan. Admiral Kautz is accompanied by his staff, Lieut. W. G. Miller and Ensign Sellers: The other officers in the Philadelphia are as follows: Capt. Edwin Muite, commander; Lieut, Com. Leutze executive officer; Lieut. Com. W. S. Highes, navigating officer; Lieuts. G. H. Brown, H. A. Field, F. H. Scofield and J. H. Hetherington, watch officers; Lieut Bates, chief engineer; Chaplain S. McAllister, Fleet Surgeon Street, Fleet Paymaster Stanton, Fleet Marine Officer Perkins, P. A. Engineer Bush Surgeon Lung, Assistant Engineer Mc-Morris, Assistant Surgeon Odell, Cadets Pettengili, Babcock, Sweet, Fleet Pay Clerk Doyle, Carpenter Barton, Gunner Jaffey and Boatswain Crogan. Liepta Haghes takes the place of Lansdale, Manila. killed in Samoa.

Admiral Kautz would not discuss Samoan matters further than to give a general sketch of the situation, which has already been published. He is of the opinion that the Commission would deal justly by all parties and give satisfaction.

On the bridge of the cruiser, in the caskets which were taken to Apia by the U.S. S. Badger, are the bodies of the dead heroes, Lient. V. Lansdale and Ensign John R. Monaghan, who their lives in defense of their country's flag in the Samozn jungle. In the regal cemetery at Mulinuu are interred the bodies of the other brave men of the Philadelphia who fell before Mataafa's bullets. They are Corswain James Butler, Ordinary Seaman Norman E. Edsall and Privates Thomas John E. Mudge, United Dag verifica States Marine Corps.

New Charity Society.

The meeting of Catholic men was held last evening at the Mission and organized a charity society. It will be conducted on a broad plan. There will he no race or color distinction. Cathelies of all conditions, whether active members or not, will be assisted if deserving. The Bishop of Panapolis will be at the head. A committee was appointed with A. S. Humphreys chairman, to draw up a constitution and by-laws. They will report at the next meeting, which will be announced later.

Still a Mystery.

The Coroner's inquest on the body of the child found at Kakaako a few days ago was held yesterday aftermoon. Deputy Marshal Chillingworth, as Coroner, summoned the following jury: John Kuaana, Joe Kolana, Ben Kzapa, Tom Heona, A. B. Hoe and 28 days from Honolulu; bk. Albert, 17 P. K. Kalauso. After listening to the days from Honolulu; bk. S. N. Castle, testimony of Dr. Emerson and the parties who had found the body, the jury returned a verdict that the child had some to her death at some place and from causes unknown.
